PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Ken Fox, CFM

Greetings Fellow IFMA members

I just mowed my front lawn.

It never really feels like Spring until I mow the grass for the first time. I tend to delay this activity for as long as possible, because I know that the stuff stays fairly dormant when undisturbed. But as soon as I cut it, as I did about an hour ago, I know that every week or two for the next eight months I'll be committed to walking behind the mower, probably thinking about not mowing the grass.

I spoke a bit about commitment in my opening comments at our Education Symposium (Another huge success, thanks once again to Cynthia Putnam and our Education Committee). For those of you who could not attend, there are two points I want to share about the commitment of our Board and Committee Chairpersons - all volunteers - dedicated to making this chapter a valuable resource for you, our members.

First, our Board feels strongly that our members should have an opportunity to tell us how we can make chapter events more relevant to you and your career. Thanks to each of you who took the time to complete our Chapter Survey - our Board will use the information to help make programs and events more relevant for our membership.

Additionally, the board is working to develop an endowment fund to support a new educational grant system for our members. We are in the process of finalizing how this will be structured, but look forward to announcing this exciting new program in the coming months.

With Spring comes change, and so too on the Board. This is my last newsletter message. In July, our next President will take office and will have the opportunity to address you for the first time in the summer newsletter. Mr. Peter Renner and Mr. Bill Blau are next in line, and I assure you they are most capable of leading this chapter into a successful future. It has been an honor and a pleasure serving as your President this year, and I thank the rest of the Board and our Committee Chairs for their fantastic guidance and support. Thanks once again for this opportunity, and I look forward to the continued success of the Seattle Chapter.

Besides, I'll need the time to mow my back yard...

Regards,

Ken Fox, CFM

Continuing Education

BUILDING OPERATOR CERTIFICATION

Course series began in March 2008 in Bellingham, Silverdale, and Renton.

For more information: www.theBOC.info/wa

BOC is an IFMA "Approved Provider" offering technical training and certification in job skills for building engineers, technicians and facilities maintenance personnel. Training focuses on energy efficient O&M practices for cost reduction. Satisfies requirements for the FMP credential in Area 2. Provides CFM maintenance points.

UW Extension Certificate Programs

Certificate Program in Facility Management (on-line)

Begins Autumn 2008

<http://www.extension.washington.edu/seg/construction.asp>

This online program – based on IFMA core competencies – enables individuals to prepare for accelerated achievement of IFMA credentials: Facility Management Professional (FMP) and Certified Facility Manager (CFM). Those who have already earned the CFM credential from the International Facility Management Association may earn certification maintenance points by successfully completing specific courses

In addition to the Certificate in Facility Management, UW Extension has a handful of certificate programs that IFMA Seattle folks might find interesting and useful.

- * Emergency Management (online)
- * Construction Management (onsite)
- * Construction Management (online)

Education Symposium

This year's Annual Education Symposium was a great success. You can check out the wrap-up and view symposium speaker presentations at <http://www.ifmaseattle.org/2008-symposiumwrapup.shtml>.

Thanks to all attendees, presenters and to the Symposium sponsors!

The Second Annual Texas Hold 'Em Tournament

Cort Furniture, Rentacrate, Securitas and GCA Services were all contributors to another successful Texas Hold 'Em Tournament. The final players included Rebecca Arcarese, Timmy Reeves, Rob Tuffey and Dave Rekevichs. First Place went to Jay Arcarese with Seattle Building Maintenance, Second Place to Rich Kaufman, and Third Place went to John Glynn with Securitas. Prizes included a boxed set of poker chips, Sonics/Trailblazers tickets and dining gift certificates.

Additional buy-in by the players raised over $300 for New Heart GreenHouse Children's Ministry in Federal Way.

This is a great event – if you didn't attend this year, be sure to put it on your calendar for next year! We had an entire table of beginning poker players who didn't make it to the final table, but had an evening of laughter and enjoyment.

Latest Version of National CAD Standard Improves Drawings Style Guide

The American Institute of Architects (AIA), the Construction Specifications Institute (CSI) and the National Institute of Building Sciences (NIBS) recently unveiled the latest version of the United States National CAD Standard® (NCS) – Version 4.0. The NCS is a comprehensive and uniform standard for presenting construction drawings for commercial facilities. NCS Version 4.0 features updated symbols and is more efficient than its predecessor, Version 3.1, which was last updated in 2005.

The NCS helps everyone who uses construction drawings communicate with one another using a consistent style, just as CSI's MasterFormat™ has provided a framework for a project's written information that appears in the project manual. Standard formats help make project delivery, operations and maintenance more efficient.

Using and requiring a single format for all drawings helps make it easier for a facility manager to understand the construction drawings that come from various sources (architects, engineers, subcontractors, etc.). This is particularly important in the operations and maintenance phase of a facility's lifecycle, when it may go through changes such as additions or installation of new equipment. Inconsistency across drawings can cause problems. The NCS facilitates a consistent appearance for drawings that can help reduce errors and change orders.

Updated Standards Reflect Industry Needs

NCS Version 4.0 offers many benefits to all drawing users, including facility managers, by helping to streamline communications over the entire lifecycle of a facility. This voluntary standard for graphical information has been updated to make it more efficient and more user-friendly. It also reflects changes in the design and construction industries. NCS Version 4.0:

- Includes documents in PDF, Excel and .dwg file formats
- Features an updated Uniform Drawing System, adding new and updated symbols for security, fire suppression and other subject areas
- Expands and reorganizes the CAD Layer Guidelines, making it easier to locate telecommunications and electrical information

The NCS is used in more than 5,000 workplaces, including many federal agencies and high-profile private-sector companies. Using the same graphical format is important as the industry turns its attention to topics such as interoperability and Building Information Modeling (BIM). The NCS is compatible with most BIM and CAD software.

Today's buildings feature more complex systems than facilities of the past. Facility managers need drawings that are clear, consistent and complete. For those facility managers using NCS Version 3.1, it is important to switch to NCS Version 4.0 as more owners, designers, engineers and product manufacturers adopt the latest edition. When all construction drawing users are following a single standard, it makes communicating project information easier.

If you would like to learn more about NCS Version 4.0, please visit www.nationalcadstandard.org. The official Web site for the NCS includes information on the updated version, answers to commonly asked questions and other resources.

We're working on some exciting new stuff!

The IFMA Seattle crew is hard at work on a number of projects. Be sure to keep an eye on your e-mail for news and updates on the annual golf outing as well as the chapter's charitable giving program.

We'll also have news on the upcoming changes planned for the website and newsletter.

Golf and THE Election By Dr. Par

Dr. Par was off on his annual winter sabbatical, in this case spent midway between the Tropic of Capricorn and the Equator in South America, in a perfectly unspoiled beachside village that will stay that way, as Dr. Par has no intention of revealing its location. The IFMA Seattle Golf Committee had sent me a presumptive invitation to participate while Dr. Par was straining to discern what substantive difference there might be between the fourth and fifth pina colada (very little) helping him to avoid sunstroke. By stipulating that no response to the contrary within a fortnight indicated affirmation, the Committee has once again finagled the circumstances so as to take advantage of Dr. Par's unmatched golf insights toward the development of the outing's structure and quality. If nothing else, they are a devious lot, these golf committee members!

When I returned from my sojourn, the outing theme related to this fall's annual primitive rite of electing representatives and a new national leader had already been established. Having already shared with the committee in previous years Dr. Par's opinion that no president worthy of the term had been elected since Teddy Roosevelt - he of big stick talking fame - the committee's trepidation toward my approval of this theme was to be expected. However, this was not the case.

Let Dr. Par explain the close connection between this year's election campaigns - so far - with the game of golf.

To wit, earlier candidates that have fallen by the way are reflective of courses that you knew by reputation and finally got to play, often at great expense. At the end of the day, the disappointment was palpable - these courses' reputations were the result of misleading marketing and flawed analysis of their character - and so it is with the dropout candidates.

Which leaves us with the current stable of political ponies who are still mucking about. You are, by dint of non-stop media blathering, at least aware of these survivors, even if you can't determine from appearance to appearance what their governing philosophy may be. Indeed, how can you choose among them without holding your nose?

At one point last year, Dr. Par had a similar choice. Dr. Par's tee shot at the Malawi Royal Golf and CC had been seriously deflected from its precisely crafted itinerary by the chance meeting of the ball some 280 yards from the hole and the handle of a sand rake inexplicably left outside of the confines of its hazard at the apex of the dogleg, slightly out of view from the tee. And so the ball had come to rest behind a log inside the hazard boundary adjoining a rank pond notorious locally as the preferred haunt of "Old Mahogany" a crocodile of sufficient size to swallow up the Mrs. Colonel E.F.C. Cook's (ret.) full-grown Bouvier des Flandres "Ajax" in one fell chomp.

And thus, as in this election primary season, Dr. Par was faced with three uncomfortable choices - turn his back on Old Mahogany, as yet unseen but certainly lurking, and play the shot greenward; or dash forward and swipe the ball sideways back toward the fairway; or invoke the privilege of intimated life-threatening hazard afforded by Rule 1-4.10 and drop the ball at a distance certain to secure physical well-being. As in a political election, I shall not reveal my choice. Suffice it to say that Dr. Par invoked what Thomas Jefferson referred to as "enlightened self interest", with a heavy emphasis on the "enlightened" portion of that phrase.

On the other hand, and that is the point of this missive, the choice to attend the IFMA Seattle Golf Outing on September 10th at Washington National Golf Club is an easy one to make. So please do. You can register on line at www.ifmaseattle.org.

Re: 2008 IFMA Golf Outing

Dear Valued Sponsor:

It is with a great deal of pleasure that your IFMA Golf Committee announces that the 11th Annual Greater Seattle Chapter IFMA Golf Outing is scheduled for an 8am shotgun start Wednesday, September 10th, at Washington National Golf Course located in Auburn. We have chosen to make this a PRESIDENT'S CHALLENGE and are appropriately calling it "An Election Year Extravaganza." We have several high profile sponsorships available that are sure to help with your campaigning efforts.

In addition to great golf, this year's Outing will again include a Silent Auction and Raffle!

Last year's IFMA Golf Outing at Washington National was a huge success, selling out prior to our event. The success was largely due to our sponsorship support.

Last year golfer participation and sponsorships netted over $14,000! The proceeds benefited The Sander Abrams Memorial Scholarship Fund, the local IFMA Seattle Chapter, The IFMA Foundation, and Northwest Children's Fund.

This worthwhile, fun event is nothing without the continued financial support of sponsors like you. As a residual benefit of your past support, all 2008 Golf Event sponsors have priority in selecting the level and type of sponsorship preferred for this year.

The Golf Event Committee has increased the number of sponsorship opportunities. As always, each sponsorship level (hole sponsor and above) includes signage, program recognition and complimentary entry. We hope you will use this fun event to express your appreciation to a client or co-worker by organizing a foursome of your own choosing and sponsoring this worthwhile event at some level.

Please review the attached list of sponsorship opportunities and return the Sponsorship Agreement with your payment as soon as possible. We have a tradition of selling out, so don't hesitate in casting your ballot on this year's event!

Your IFMA Golf Outing Committee thanks you for your past support and we look forward to seeing you again this year at Washington National, on Wednesday, September 10th. If you have any questions regarding sponsorships, please contact Rick Knight at 253-224-3756 or Matt Watson at 206-391-0689.

See you on September 10th!

Your 2008 IFMA Golf Outing Committee
